Poetry.

SPRING.

THE rainbow spirit of Beauty builds
On the sunlight clouds her airy throne,
And the light from her lustred pinion guds
With a softer light the o'erbending zone;
Her gossamer banners are all unfurled,
Along the blue depths of the wandering air,
And she flings her smiles on a waiting world,
To call the young blossoms to loveliness there.

The dancing depths of the murmuring streams
Rejoice, as the breath of the spring goes by,
And their voice, like the untold music of dreams
Is blending its song with the young breeze nigh:
There's a shout of joy from the upland rill,
Flung out on the joyous winds of spring,
And the birds from the stirring forests fill
The air with their gleeful carrolling.

The bursting buds, & the sweet wild-flowers,
Are scenting the breath of the balmy gale,
While the morning sun, and the noontide showers,
Fling over their leaves a crimson veil;
The parting smile of the soft twilight
Is tinging the west with a beautiful hue,
And the flowers ere they rest in the shades of night,
Wear a deepening blush in the sunset too!

The trembling harps of the glowing earth,
By the soft spring-winds are gently swept,
Giving to music etherial birth,
That long in winter's stern silence has slept;
The musical hum of the lapsing stream,
And the perfumed sighs of the budding trees,
Are Eolian tones from the harps that seem
To come with the wings of the southern breeze.

The Spirit of Spring! 'Tis a gentle word,
That calls from the heart a joyous thrill,
And pleasant thoughts in the breast are stirred,
By the song that sweeps o'er the sunny hill;
Fancy goes off on a wider wing,
To visit the beautiful things of Earth,
And back to the bounding soul will bring
The shadowless pictures of beauty and mirth!

VERSES,

INSCRIBED IN AN ALBUM. BY F. JEFFERY.

Why write my name midst songs and flowers
To meet the eye of lady gay?
I have no voice for lady's bowers—
For page like this no fitting lay.

Yet though no more my heart must bound
At witching call of sprightly joys,
Mine is the brow that never frown'd
On laughing lips, or sparkling eyes.

No—though behind me now is closed
The youthful paradise of love,
Yet can I bless, with soul composed,
The lingerers in that happy grove.

Take, then, fair girls, my blessing take!
Where'er amid its charms you roam;
Or where, by western hill or lake,
You brighten a serener home.

And while the youthful lover's name
Here with the sister beauty's blends,
Laugh not to scorn the humbler aim,
That in their list would add a friend's!

LORD BYRON.

By Miss L. Davidson, written in her 15th year.

His faults were great—his virtues less—
His mind a burning light of Heaven;
His talents were bestowed to bless,
But were as vainly lost as given.

His was a harp of heavenly sound—
The numbers wild, and bold, and clear;
But, ah! some demon, hovering round,
Tuned its sweet chords to sin and fear.

His was a mind of giant mould,
Which grasped at all beneath the skies;
And his a heart, so icy cold,
That virtue in its recess dies.

Miscellany.

From the 16th number of the Journal of Health, just received we extract the following article on

CHEAP PLEASURES.

In Dr. Aikin's letters to his son, we meet with one on cheap pleasures, the whole of which is replete with good sense. It is intended to point out those sources of rational and innocent amusement which are within the reach of almost every person, in the more wealthy, as well as in the middle classes of society. We extract from it the following, as it recommends an occupation well adapted to the preservation of health.

"So many advantages with respect to health, tranquillity of mind, useful knowledge, and inexhaustible amusement, are united in the study of nature, that I should not fail warmly to recommend it to your notice, had you not already acquired a decided taste for its pursuits. In its favour I can speak from my own experience; for the study of English Botany caused several summers to glide away with me in more pure and active delight than almost any other single object ever afforded me. It rendered every ride and walk interesting, and converted the plodding rounds of business into excursions of pleasure. From the impression of these feelings, I have ever regarded as perfectly superfluous the pains taken by some of the friends of natural history, to show its utility in reference to the common purposes of life. Many of their observations, indeed, are true, and may serve to gain patrons for the study among those who measure every thing by the standard of economical value; but is it not enough to open a source of copious and cheap amusement, which tends to harmonize the mind, and elevate it to worthy conceptions of nature and its author? If I offer a man happiness at an easy rate, unalloyed by any debasing mixture, can I confer on him a greater blessing? Nothing is more favourable to health and enjoyment than the combination of bodily exertion and ardour of mind. This, the researches of natural history afford in great perfection: and such is the immense variety of its objects, that the labours of the longest life cannot exhaust them.

The study of nature is in itself a cheap study; yet it may be pursued in a very expensive manner, by all the apparatus of cabinets, purchased collections, prints and drawings. But if you will content yourself with the great book of nature, and a few of its ablest expositors, together with the riches your own industry may accumulate, you will find enough of it within your own compass to answer all reasonable purposes of instruction and amusement. We are both acquainted with an excellent naturalist, who, by a proper application of the time and money he has been able to spare out of a common writing school, has made himself the possessor of more curious and accurate knowledge than falls to the lot of many owners of the most costly treasures. The recollection of his modest merit and scientific content, will ever, I am sure, endear to you these fertile stores of cheap delight."

Delta of the Mississippi.—The Report of the Board of Internal Improvement on the contemplated Canal between the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico, contains much valuable information respecting the topography of the coast, rivers and country embraced by the surveys. The Delta of the Mississippi is noticed among them, a region very peculiar in its formation, and highly important to the agriculture of the United States.—That peculiarity of formation renders it necessary that any system of canals adopted in Louisiana, should not, as the Report remarks, be limited to the object only of connecting different ports with each other, and with the main arteries of communication, but should be framed, like that which is employed at the mouth of the Rhone, the Meuse and the Scheld, to guard the country against inundation, to facilitate drainage, and create by deposite a large accession of fertile soil. This subject is important, as the soil and climate are adapted to the growth of sugar, and as nature has set certain limits to the growth of this valuable product.

It has been observed that the freshets in the Mississippi are becoming higher than usual, and the ruptures of the dykes more frequent; hence the settled parts of Lower Louisiana are more and more menaced with being overflown. The reason is this, that, before the extension of settlements along the margin of the river, numerous issues and outlets carried to the sea a considerable volume of water. For the security of these settlements it was necessary to erect dikes or levees which have shut up these outlets, and also, by straightening the bed of the river, have confined its enormous mass of waters within a narrow channel. The same cause must produce the same effect hereafter, and in a still greater degree. With a view of counteracting it, the Report we have referred to recommends the improvement and clearing out of several great outlets, which by causes constantly operating in that extraordinary stream, became gradually filled up or otherwise obstructed. The Bayou Manchac, or Ibberville river the Bayou Plaquemine, and La Fourche river, are indicated as among the most important of these channels, which besides furnishing the necessary outlet for the waters in the season of inundation, would be highly useful for the ordinary purposes of canals, communication, and trade.

Progress of Steam!—The Williamstown Advocate mentions the construction, in Nassau, New-York, of a steam coach, to run with ease and safety on our common roads. It will convey eight tons, at the rate of 15 miles an hour; and one bushel of charcoal will supply the engine four hours. The boiler is so constructed that nothing is lost by the escape of any of the steam, it being condensed and returned immediately to the boiler; and neither smoke nor steam are to be seen when the carriage is in motion. In descending hills, friction bands are applied to the hubs by means of a progressive screw, and are made more or less tight according to the declivity; and for ascending, steel corks are placed in the circumference of the wheels between each spoke, which are thrown out or drawn in by the application of a screw to a wedge placed between the hub of the wheel and the cork to be moved.

Trust in God.—The Philadelphia Inquirer publishes the following anecdote, related by a friend and cotemporary of the lamented Dr. Godman:

"Some years ago, in conversation with us, he said that in a voyage to sea in early life, he had seen a lad who had just begun to be a sailor, going out to some projecting part of the rigging. His arms were supported by a spar, and he was looking below him for a rope which ran across, on which his feet should be. The rope flew from side to side, and it was evident that the poor fellow was becoming dizzy, and in danger of falling, when the mate shouted to him with all his force, "LOOK ALOFT! you sneaking lubber!" By thus turning away his eyes from the danger, the dizziness was prevented, and he found his footing. And this incident, the Doctor said, often recurred to his mind in after life, when his troubles grew heavy upon him, and he hardly could find ground whereon to tread. At such times he heard the mate's shout in his ears, and turned his eyes "aloft," to the prize upon which he had fixed all his hopes. We cannot part with this beautiful illustration, without asking each of our readers to apply it to a still nobler purpose: to steady themselves in all the tempests of adversity by looking toward that life in which there is rest and peace evermore—and when our flesh and heart shall fail us, and we can find no support under our feet, to seek it by "looking aloft," to Him, "who is the strength of our hearts, and our portion for ever."

"Who then is Blannerhasset?"—There is no Virginian, to whom the name of this notorious traitor of poor Aaron Burr is not rendered famous by the eloquence of Wirt. The following extract of a letter from a gentleman in England to his friend in Richmond, which appears in the last Enquirer, contains the only information of him we have seen for years. It will be read with some interest.

"In the Island of Guernsey, I fell in with a Gentleman, who once figured in a very public character in Richmond, Mr. Blannerhasset. He is suffering from the infirmities of old age, and asthma. His wife is still a fine woman, and shews that, 25 years ago she was beautiful. The friends in the Island of Jersey, who gave me the introduction, knew that he had been in America, and knew nothing of the prosecution. Mrs. Blannerhasset wept when we talked over Mr. Wirt's speech. She seemed dearly attached to Western Virginia, and we spent a truly pleasant afternoon and evening together."—Savannah Geo.

Growth of Silk.—The French government is seriously occupied in attempts to encourage the cultivation of the mulberry tree in France, so as to be able to do without foreign silk. For this purpose they have offered premiums for the most extensive growth of mulberry trees, and the largest quantities of silk; and some of the ministers have given instructions to their stewards in the country to plant several acres with this tree. It appears that, with careful cultivation the mulberry may be brought to maturity, as to the yielding of fruit, in five years, and, as the wood is excellent for wine casks, giving an agreeable flavor to the wine—two objects of no common industry may be accomplished at the same time. A readier way than regular planting, however is recommended for the food of silk-worms. It is advisable to sow, as in China and in some parts of America, the seed of the tree, and to cut off the young shoots and leaves in the following year.

CALICOES.—It is stated in the New York Courier that at the Eagle Print works, at Belville New Jersey, upwards of 120,000 yards of American calicoes are printed weekly:—The works are very extensive, and embrace stops for the manufacture of all the patterns, forms and tints, and keep in constant employ upwards of two hundred persons. The goods manufactured at this institution meet with a ready sale, and it is said are so excellent that many a fair one, who imagines she is decked in the "latest importation," is, in fact arrayed in calico, printed in New Jersey.

An association was formed in Holland in December last, for draining the celebrated Lake of Harlaem. It covers an extent of 50,000 acres, and was produced by an inundation two centuries ago.—London paper.

CONGRESS.

IN SENATE, TUESDAY, APRIL 27.

Mr. Tazewell, from the Select Committee, to which had been referred the message of the House of Representatives demanding the impeachment of Judge Peck, made a report.—Mr. Woodbury, from the Committee on Commerce, to which had been referred two letters from the Chief Engineer, relating to the survey of the river Wabash, presented on Monday last by Mr. Hendricks, reported that no appropriation could be made for improving the navigation of said river before the completion of the surveys. Several resolutions were presented by Mr. Holmes, calling on the President of the United States for the reason of removals from office, and for some other purposes. The Senate spent some time in the consideration of Executive business.

Wednesday April 28.

The resolutions offered yesterday by Mr. Holmes, relative to removals, was called up.

Mr. Holmes addressed the Senate two hours in support of his resolutions; after which Mr. Grundy, without comment, moved to lay them on the table, which was decided in the affirmative, by Yeas 24, Nays 21.

After discussing some motions relative to printing reports of the committees relative to the Bank of the U. S. the Senate adjourned.

Thursday, April 29.

A long debate took place on the bill, from the House of Representatives, "declaratory of the several acts to provide for certain persons engaged in the land and Naval service of the United States in the Revolutionary war"—which continued until the hour of adjournment.

Friday, April 30.

A proposition was reported by Mr. Smith, of S. C. from the Committe on Finance, to reduce the duty on salt to ten cents after December next. The bill establishing a Law Department was debated, and then laid on the table, to make way for a bill, of which Mr. Webster gave notice, to establish the office of Solicitor of the Treasury. The bill from the House of Representatives, to explain and extend the pension laws, was debated, and finally rejected, 25 to 20. A short time was spent in Executive business, when the Senate adjourned to Monday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Tuesday, April 27.

Mr. Chilton offered the following preamble and resolution:—

Whereas, Suspicions have gone abroad, that under the present administration many removals of Public Officers have been made from political considerations alone, and not from any particular devotion to the public interest—and whereas, there exists considerable excitement, relative to the causes of said removals. Now to quiet the public apprehension upon this subject, be it—Resolved, That the President of the U. S. be respectfully requested to cause to be reported to this House, as soon as convenient, the precise number of removals of officers, from the highest to the lowest, who held offices under the General Government on the 4th of March, 1829, and belonging to the various departments; and that he be also, respectfully requested, to have expressed, the causes for each removal.

The introduction of this resolution caused great excitement. Mr. Ramsey moved to lay the resolution on the table. Mr. M'Duffie then demanded the question of consideration, on which the ayes and noes were ordered. The House refused to consider, by a vote of 126 to 18.

The resolution relative to the public Printing, was debated the allotted hour.

The remainder of the day was occupied on the penal laws relating to the District of Columbia.

Wednesday, April 27.

Printing.—The resolution on this subject was again considered, and eventually adopted as follows:

Resolved, That any motion to print an extra number of any document or other matter, excepting the message of the President of the United States to both Houses at the commencement of each session of Congress, and the reports and documents connected with or referred to in it, shall lie one day on the table unless otherwise ordered by the unanimous consent of the House.

On motion of Mr. Mercer, the Secretary of war was directed to furnish the House with a copy of the Court Martial proceedings in the case of Adjutant-General Jones.

TARIFF.—The House, in Committee, reported the consideration of the bill to amend an act in alteration of the acts imposing duties on Imports.

Mr. M'Duffie then continued the observation he commenced on Monday.—Before he had concluded, the Committee rose, and reported progress.

After passing some private bills, the House adjourned.

Thursday, April 29.

The resolution offered by Mr. Bailey, instructing the Committee on Elections to prepare a Digest of the cases of contested elections decided by the House, was discussed. Mr. Bailey explained, and Messrs. Everett of Mass. and Mercer supported the resolution on the usefulness of compilation. Messrs. Alston, Tucker, Davis, of S. C. Carson and M'Coy opposed the resolution, as unnecessary, that the information desired was already on the files of the House, that the work would make a large volume, and that nothing was heard this session but print, print, print. Eventually the resolution was laid on table.

The engrossed bill to authorize a subscription to the stock of the Maysville and Lexington Turnpike Road Company was read the third time and passed, ayes 102, noes 86, and sent to the Senate for concurrence.

The House went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Polk in the Chair, on the bill relative to "altering the several acts laying duties on imports," and the amendment proposed thereto by Mr. McDuffie.

Mr. McDuffie spoke nearly two hours in continuation of his argument, to show the unequal and oppressive effects of the protecting system, and its dangerous consequences if persisted in. When he concluded, several gentlemen rose; but Mr. Blair, of South Carolina, obtained the floor, on whose motion the Committee rose, and the House adjourned.

Friday, April 30.

Mr. Cambreleng, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill to amend the navigation laws of the United States, which was read a first time. The bill authorizes the President of the United States, whenever he shall receive satisfactory evidence of the existence of any law or decree of any foreign government, authorizing the importation of the produce and manufactures of the United States into such foreign country, then the produce of such country, and all of its possessions may be admitted into the United States at a rate of duty not exceeding 30 per cent.]

Mr. Mallary moved to lay the bill upon the table, but suspended his motion until Mr. Cambreleng addressed the House at some length, deprecating the illiberality which would be manifested by the majority to thus preclude a debate upon the merits of the bill. Mr. Mallary replied, and renewed his motion to lay the bill on the table. Mr. Gorham moved an indefinite postponement of the subject. Mr. Cambreleng hoped the gentleman would modify his motion so as to postpone the bill untill the first Monday in January next. Mr. Gorham addressed the House at length, presenting general views in opposition to the bill. Mr. Wayne rose to speak, but it being announced that the hour for the presentation of petitions and resolutions had elapsed, the subject was laid over.

The bill for the settlement of private land claims in Florida was taken up, and, after considerable discussion, passed.

Saturday, May, 1.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill to amend the navigation laws of the United States, reported by Mr. Cambreleng from the Committee of Commerce, yesterday.

Mr. Wayne, of Georgia, rose, and addressed the House until the expiration of the hour, in support of the policy of the measures proposed by he bill.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole, and took up the articles of impeachment reported by the Select Committee, against Judge Peck. Messrs J. Buchanan, Storrs, M'Duffie, Spencer and Wickliffe, were appointed Managers to conduct the impeachment, and then the House adjourned.

BY MAILS.

MOBILE, APRIL 21.

The Creek Chief Tuskina reached here yesterday, in charge of an officer of the U. S. Army, and was delivered over to the custody of the Marshal of this District. An examination was had before a magistrate last evening on a charge of his having stopped the U. S. Mail in Feb. He was held to bail in the sum of one thousand dollars, for his appearance at the May term of the District Court to be held in this city.

BALTIMORE, MAY 1.

LATEST FROM CHILI.

By the arrival at this port of the brig Montezuma, from Valpairaso, whence she sailed on the second of February, we have received papers of that city to the the 31st of January.

A counter revolution had broken out in Conception. Gen. Novoa had entered the town with about 300 men and killed several of the inhabitants—among them the intendant. The town was sacked.

The French Consul had demanded the punishment of the persons who stripped him and his family in the late attack on Santiago, and an humble apology had been tendered him as a reparation for the loss of his clothing and dignity.

A rupture had taken place between Generals Prieto and Freire, and the latter had fitted out an expedition against the the former, consisting of 800 men, who had embarked on board of six vessels as it was supposed, for Coquimbo and Talcahuano. Our papers do not come down to a date sufficiently late to develope the catastrophe which we have no doubt has long since taken place. Whatever it may have been, it is not to be doubted that a military supremacy of an odious character has taken the place of the present state of unbridled anarchy.

From Peru it is said that General Gomorra had been elected President, and Fuente Vice President, on the 19th of December.

By the late arrivals from Buenos Ayres, our files of papers are brought down to the 10th March inclusive.

The Government of Buenos Ayres had obtained 4000 coffee plants, with the intention of introducing its cultivation. They were to be sent to Corrientes where the soil was considered as promising the most favorable results.

NEW-YORK, MAY 3.

MEXICO.—A gentleman, who has resided for several months past in Mexico, has furnished the editor of the New-Orleans Bee with the following account of the present state of that country:

The Mexican Provinces are in the most agitated state, and have been so for these last four months.

The present party in power is called Scotch Party. President Guerero lives at his country seat. Gen. Bustamente, the Vice-President, having a large part of the army under his command, attained the ascendency over the Yorkers party, (as they are called,) and forced President Guerero to retire from the Presidency.

Civil war rages throughout the Provinces. About three weeks ago, a force of 1000 men were sent to arrest Presi- Guerero—he received information of their intention, and retired to the mountains with 500 men, where he is increasing his forces, and bids defiance to the party in power.

Several battles have been fought with little success on either side; the opinion is, that the present party will soon be out of power. At the present moment, Mexico is the most despotic government upon the globe. The Constitution is treated as a piece of blank paper—the the Military rule the people, both high and low, with an iron hand.

Persons are arrested and imprisoned by orders from Bustamente and his officers, as suit their pleasure.

The Finances are in the most deplorable state. Some months ago the Government borrowed large sums of money from the merchants, for which they gave their paper—which paper was to go in payment of duties; but such is the dishonour and tricks of the present rulers, that they have broke their contracts and refuse receiving their notes in payment of duties.

The province of Yucatan has declared itself free and independent of the Mexican Republic, and will listen to no terms from Bustamente or his party.

Their Navy is nothing but a name; having no armament, men, state or money. Com. Lopez, who has commanded in Vera Cruz for some time, has been broke, and now keeps a montebank (or gambling table) for his support.

The famous Gen. St. Anna lives at his country seat, like another Cincinnatus, and it is the opinion of all good Mexicans, as well as foreigners, that he is the only man who can save the country in its present state of anarchy and civil war.

May 4.

From Matanzas.—The brig Rebecca, which arrived on Tuesday evening in 13 days from Matanzas, informs us that the United States ships Falmouth and Shark were to the leeward, all well.—A large Spanish Guineaman, with 300 slaves on board, had been chased ashore by H. B. M. schooner Pincher. She succeeded in landing all her slaves, got off, and arrived at Matanzas. The Capt. or the Pincher had demanded her of the Governer, but the latter refused to give her up.

BOSTON, MAY 5.

THE SALEM MURDER.

Yesterday forenoon, we understand, Richard Crowninshield, Jr. and George Crowninshield, both of Danvers, Benjamin Selman, of Marblehead, and Daniel Chase, late resident of Salem, were brought from the Salem Prison before the Supreme Court now holden at Ipswich by the Hon. Samuel Putnam, Associate Judge, and were put to the bar and an indictment, charging the said Richard as principal, and the others as accessories, in the murder of Joseph White, Esq. at Salem on the sixth of April last, was read to them. In the first count, mortal wounds are alleged to have been inflicted on the head of the deceased with a hatchet by Richard Crowninshield, Jr. the other prisoners being present aiding and abetting him. The second count alleged that said Richard made several mortal wounds in the breast and near the heart of the deceased with a dirk, the other prisoners being present, &c. The arraignment (says our correspondent) was conducted by Mr. Prince, the Clerk, in the most correct and impressive manner, and the scene was most solemn and affecting.—The prisoners seem to be very young men, and behaved with great decorum. They severally pleaded Not guilty, and said they would be tried by their God and their country. At their request Mr. Walsh and Mr. Shillaber of Salem, were assigned as their Counsel. The day of trial cannot yet be appointed, the engagements of the other Judges preventing a full Court at present.

Extract of a letter from an Officer on board the U. S. Frigate Hudson, to his friend in this town, dated

"Rio Janeiro, March 13, 1830.

"Yesterday we attended the funeral obsequies of our Charge d'Affairs, Mr. Tudor. He is a serious loss to his country, and will be difficult to supply his place with one who can render himself so acceptable to the authorities here.—Every respect was paid him, both by the civil officers of the Government, and the French and English Naval Officers on this station."

BY STEAM-BOAT.—The Benj. Franklin arrived early yesterday morning, from which we received New-York papers to Thursday evening, from which we copy the following disaster.

NEW-YORK, MAY

ANOTHER STEAM BOAT EXPLOSION.

We regret to record yet another of those distressing casualties resulting from the effects of steam. A letter dated Pittsburgh, April 30th, says,—

"The steamboat Home has just arrived, and brings the distressing news of the steamboat Caledonia, having burst a boiler near the month of the Chio, on the 22d of April, on her passage from New-Orleans to Louisville. Two of the crew killed, and twelve of the passengers jumped overboard and were drowned. No further particulars.—The boat is heavily insured at Cincinnati.

From the Philadelphia Coffee House Books, another letter is copied, dated New Madrid, April 20th, and addressed to the owners.

"I have the melancholy duty (says the writer) to let you know that on the 18th inst. the steam boat boiler of the Caledonia burst, killing and wounding about 15 of the passengers and 7 of the crew: 7 or 8 more were blown overboard and lost. Some of the wounded will recover, although badly scalded. The boiler burst on the side, while the boat was under way, about two hours after having wooded. The iron is said to have been defective, as it has been in use one year in service. We had a large freight, with 400 deck and 60 cabin passengers; which with the crew amounted to nearly 500 souls. The hull of the boat is uninjured. We are now in the Paul Jones, and you may expect her at Louisville in a few days."

The Editor of the Philadelphia Gazette has conversed with a gentleman who was on board when the accident occurred. The terror and confusion of the moment, he says, it is impossible to describe.

The Pennsylvania Inquirer mentions that an advertisement for a Clerk in that paper a few days ago, called forth several hundred applications. The number of active young men wanting employment in our large cities has long been the subject both of observation and complaint. It is said to be great in Boston, and is probably greater, even in proportion to the population, in this city. There would be nothing indicating a diseased state of society in this circumstance, were this body of unoccupied youths fluctuating, and replaced from time to time by others, as the former found some honest employment. This however is not the fact. Too many of them fall victims to idleness and the vices of large cities. Too many with every exertion, can really find no employment whatever for which they are capable ; and too many, having prematurely risked a slender capital, become insolvent, and are unable to enter again into any business, while under the pressure of indebtedness. If farmers would bring up the body of their children to follow their own virtuous safe and honorable avocation, instead of sending so many of them, without guardians and without experience into shops and stores, the evil would not be so great. It is to be hoped that it will remedy itself in the course of time.—But thousands have already been lost to themselves and the country who might have been the fathers of a new state in the great West.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Great Failure.—By the arrival of the barque Monmouth, at Boston, from Calcutta, intelligence has been received, that the extensive mercantile house of Palmer & Co. stopped payment on the 4th Jan. There had been a meeting of creditors, and the property was made over to assignees for the benefit of the whole. The failure is said to be for 2 1-2 Crose of Rupees, equal to twelve and a half millions of dollars. Messrs. Cockerell, Trail & Co. of London, were creditors to the amount of 400,000*l* sterling.

Earthquake.—By the schooner Cicero, Watts, in 12 days from Port au-Prince, the editors of the American have received a letter from a correspondent, under date of 14th April, which contains the following account of an earthquake experienced there on the 12th of the month : " We experienced a tremendous shock of an earthquake here on the night before last, which almost tossed me out of bed, A pitcher of water which was on a table near my bed, was shaken until nearly all the water was spilled on the floor.—The walls of all the brick houses in town were cracked, and some of them seriously injured. The commotion lasted about 30 seconds. The house in which I was, fortunately was of wood, which kept such a cracking that I was afraid it would fall every moment. I ran out on the piazza, and was in the act of jumping from it, a distance of 40 feet, when every thing became quiet again. Every house was deserted, and in a few minutes the streets were full of people, running in all directions. The lowing of the cattle, the howling of the dogs, and the cries and screams of the women and children, were truly alarming. This is the third earthquake since my arrival, the other two being very slight. After all was over I went round the town, and saw large stones and pillars of brick work thrown from the houses, and the walls ruined."

It is reported that information has been communicated to the British Minister at Washington, that Capt. Thomas Bolton Finch, the present commander of the U. S. ship Vincennes, is the legal heir to the title and great estate of the Earl of Bolton. The report is given in such a shape, that we have no reason to doubt it. The Vincennes was at Canton early in January, to sail in a few days for home, and may be soon expected. We are informed that Capt. Finch came to this country when he was four years old, and has risen from an humble station to his present rank in our navy, by the regular gradation of merit.—N. Y. Mer. Adv.

Judge Law, on Powell's affidavit, issued a warrant for the arrest of C. & Richard Floyd, for an assault with intent to murder, but they could not be found. P. was escorted to and from the court house, by an armed party of friends.

VEGETABLE CER[ATE.]

HAIR Restorative and pre[server.] Vegetable CERATE; simple [in its na]ture and wonderful in its operation. [This im]portant discovery of a Vegetable [illegible] capable of restoring and preserving [the hair] was accidentally made by an indivi[dual who] has neither the capacity, nor the d[isposition to] practice deception or fraud. The [illegible] ance may be placed on the efficacy [illegible] of the Vegetable Cerate, and not only [in restor]ing and preventing the falling off of [the hair,] but in producing the neatest lustre a[nd glossi]ness of it imaginable; and the public [may be] assured that its effects will be cle[arly mani]fested in the course of a short time [by the re]newal of a vigorous growth of the h[air, and] effectually preventing its coming out [or falling] off. The Vegetable Cerate tends to [illegible] and excite the energies of the capilla[ry vessels,] which constitute those organs that s[ecrete the] matter forming the hair; these, like [other] organs of the animal body, which ha[ve been in] a state of dormancy or disease, may [be restored] to their healthy action, and perform [the] functions assigned them by nature.

☞ The above Cerate is for S[ale at this] Office as Agents for the Proprietor.
